In early September of 1759 a British naval & military expedition was assembled at Louisbourg for the capture of Quebec Wolfe's army was 9000 strong and he set up camps about 6 miles above Quebec. On July 31 he assaulted the French lines at Beauport with diasterous results. After marching overland , Wolfe landed his army at the Anse au Foulon about 1 mile south of of Quebec. After climbing the heights on the morning of Sept 13 he had 4500 men on the "Plains of Abraham" . Upon seeing the British there Montcalm declared "This is serious business" and called "to arms" his army to meet the threat. Two (2) "What if" scenarios will be in play that mish alter Canadian History! Which King will you bleed for?

2-4 players

In April of 1760, the French Army was poised to remove the stain they had suffered on the Plains of Abraham less than a year before. In doing so they may be able to retake Quebec and thus, New France would continue to resist against all odds as they have for the previous 40 years. On the Dumont Farm and its surrounding meadows, the British and French shall fight once more to see if the fate of North America and all its inhabitants continue as it has, or change to a future unknown.

After the Commies invaded, they have been using the small town of Winter Creek as a checkpoint and layover at the crossroads of Route 94 and 115. Several squads are stationed here to man the checkpoint and run patrols around the town. Most of the residents have fled, but some remain. Several times a week, a supply convoy usually stops there for the night before proceeding towards Colorado Springs. A strike here will let them know that America is not out of the fight and could net some much-needed supplies and recruits. Good luck!

8pm

Clash at Troyan

WW2 6mm

Sturm Des Kreigs

James Smith

6 players

It is 8, September 1944. Days before, the Bulgarian government had ordered all German troops to leave the country. On the 7th, Bulgaria declared war on Germany in an attempt to appease the Soviets. However, earlier that day, the Soviet Union had already declared war on Bulgaria and was moving south through Romania to invade. Now the only thing holding back the Russians were German and Bulgarian SS units holding the city of Troyan. Troyan, a mountain city that blocks north-south access into central Bulgaria, was the only railway route and the primary north-south, east-west road junction through the central mountains. A mixed German battalion that was preparing to move north into Romania was now tasked with defending it. A Soviet combined arms regiment has been ordered to take the city and secure the access the Russians need to continue south. They are unaware that Troyan is still occupied and are not expecting resistance, based on the current political situation. The Area is well protected by German defenses. Can you, as the Germans, repeat history and stop the Soviet wave? Or, as the Russian commander, break through and destroy the last German defenders of a traitorous former ally?

Tensions between the Germanic tribes and the Romans began as early as 17/16 BC with the Clades Lolliana, where the 5th Legion under Marcus Lollius was defeated by the tribes Sicambri, Usipetes, and Tencteri. Roman Emperor Augustus responded by rapidly developing military infrastructure across Gaul. His general, Nero Claudius Drusus, began building forts along the Rhine in 13 BC and launched a retaliatory campaign across the Rhine in 12 BC. It is now 12 BC and time for the Romans to strike back. Join us for a foray into the dangerous lands of the Germanic tribes to gain Glory or Infamy. The game will start at approximately 10 am. Infamy, Infamy! is a large-scale skirmish game.
